Richard D. Smith, Ph.D., is a Battelle Fellow and Chief Scientist in the Biological Sciences Division at Pacific Northwest National Laboratory (PNNL) in Richland, WA. His research has involved the development and application of advanced methods, instrumentation, and informatics capabilities and their applications in biological research, with particular emphasis on proteomics. Dr. Smith is Director of the NIH Biomedical Technology Resource Center for Integrative Biology, the NIAID Biodefense Proteomics Research Center for Identifying Targets for Therapeutic Interventions using Proteomics, and the U.S. Department of Energy High Throughput Proteomics Facility at PNNL. He is an adjunct faculty member of the Departments of Chemistry at Washington State University, the University of Utah, and the University of Idaho. Dr. Smith has presented more than 350 invited or plenary lectures at national and international scientific meetings, and is the author or co-author of more than 700 publications. Dr. Smith holds thirty-six patents and has been the recipient of seven R&D 100 Awards and the 2003 American Chemical Society Award for Analytical Chemistry.
