

Ayurveda, Homeopathy and Chinese Medicine

May 18-19, 2017 Munich, Germany

Traditional Chinese medicine associated with quantum therapy to prescription of trace element, chromium and floral frequency modulators in patients with depression

Wilson F S Neto

Faculdade Mario Schenberg, Brazil

Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM) interprets the depression as liver deficiency by excess moisture, cold and pericardial deficiency because excess moisture heat. According to TCM, depression is the conflict between reason and feeling that alters immune function and minerals. Acupuncture and Quantum Therapy (t. q.) correct these amendments, therefore, synergistic to all specialties of Western and eastern medicine, without the risk of causing adverse reactions. Objective: to present the trace element chromium, Desobesim and modulator the modulator Krebs as indication in patients with depression. Method: 32 issues questionnaire filled in by the healthcare professional. Bodies with more amount of "YES" represented greater imbalance. Added other inductors and Frequenciais corresponding to the Floral organs Modular in imbalance. Result: After 120 days of treatment with acupuncture and TQ, there was the regulation of the levels of vitamins and minerals. Conclusion: clear that much additional study is necessary before a clear understanding between MTC and TQ. This treatment may stimulate future research in this area is highly significant for exploratory study on depression.

Biography

Wilson Neto opened new frontiers in Chinese medicine when you had access to the teachings of the I Ching preserved for millennia by the ancient sages. To delve into Chinese philosophy, simplified the complexity of Chinese medicine. He is the author of two unpublished techniques on so-called Bio I Ching – for treatment of pain and various chronic diseases. Its innovative method of diagnosing eases the way to interpret each energy syndrome correlating every organ and viscera (Zang-Fu) with known diseases in the West. In addition, created a points Finder that finds the correct point to pain and various diseases, dispensing maps and protocols of acupuncture points to perform the treatments. Then added to the acupuncture Quantum therapy to prescribe herbal medicines, trace elements, floral, vitamins and minerals according to the diagnostic conclusion of Chinese medicine. Finally, established groups of food allergens yin-yang and Five flavors for each patient individually.

doutorneto@hotmail.com

Notes: