How To Take Smart Risks in Practice

Grow some guts and takes some risks. Smart risk in practice can help you reach the next level. You will never grow with little tiny risks. The bigger your risk the more exciting and thrilling practice can be. Yes, it can be scary to bet on the farm, but why not bet on something you can control? Yourself!! The best person to invest in is yourself, and you have so much capacity to reap great rewards. I would like to go over some of my risks in practice, how I decide to take on risks and how to evaluate and study my investments. I will walk you through some great examples and help you regain some traction on building your practice. I will also talk about what to do when you fail. Failure is part of success and we need to get comfortable with it.

Biography

Martin Perras is a young French Canadian offering acupuncture and Traditional Chinese Medicine in Canada’s home capital - Ottawa! He is currently working as one of the busiest acupuncture clinician in Canada.

martin@oaktreehealth.ca