Commentary

The author of the book, John Perkins through four life as a killer in the world economy (Economic Hit Man), as the CEO of a company that managed to alternative energy, which receive a handsome reward for not disclosing his past experiences as an Economic Hit Man.

An expert in the field of culture and traditional medicine of aboriginal tribes, instructor and writer who uses his expertise to promote the conservation of nature, but still holds the oath and promise to not tell the story of his life as an Economic Hit Man, and now as a writer that reveals the true story of the life and career as an Economic Hit Man, unlocking the secrets to the world about evil plan and widespread corruption in the United States effort to create a global empire, which was hated by the world community [1].

Formerly, when he was an Economic Hit Man the author task is to persuade and convince the countries of the third world in order to receive a loan to a substantial amount for infrastructure development in the country, other than to lend a substantial amount of actual needs.

State borrowing is bound by the conditions imposed, namely engineering works and construction of development projects was given to the United States giant companies such as Halliburton and Bechtel.

Once countries are tied by debt, the United States government and international aid agencies that are in cahoots with the United States impose their grip on the country's economy and they will make sure that oil and natural resources were channeled to the United States for its interest and strengthen global empire.

In the area of power and his career as an Economic Hit Man, the author have travelled around the world and whether directly involved or witnessed the dramatic events in the history of the modern world, including the activities of the Money Laundering in Saudi Arabia, the fall of the Shah of Iran, the assassination of President Panama; Omar Torrijos, and followed by the United States invasion of Panama, and the events that led to the United States invasion of Iraq in 2003.

Since the 1990s all the way into the new millennium, the author delivered on his promise to not open his mouth about his experiences as an Economic Hit Man, so he receives a lucrative payment as a corporate consultant.

As to redeem the sins and guilt he used most of the money wages as a consultant to the activities of the organization. Arts & Entertainment TV broadcaster broadcast an article film on the activities of the author entitled "Headhunters of the Amazon".

The narrator's voice in this film is Leonard Nimoy. Italian Cosmopolitan published a lengthy article about the workshops in Europe entitled, "Shapeshifting". TIME magazine chose the Dream Change as one of the 13 organizations which its website represents the ideal and Earth Day aims.

Then came September 11, 2001. The horrific incident that occurred on that day make the author intends to disclose everything about him as a former Economic Hit Man, and set aside threats and bribes.

Author began writing Confessions of an Economic Hit Man. He became conscious of his duty to share with everyone what he knew about the role of the United States government, the role of international institutions, lenders, and large firms that have characterized the world until the catastrophe of the World Trade Center.

Author wants to reveal the Economic Hit Man today is everywhere and at any time on this planet than his former Economic Hit Man.

He needs to make this disclosure through the book because he feels obligation to his country, his son, to everyone in this world, especially to those who suffer from the effects of the act from Economic Hit Man, and to himself.

In this book he outlined the dangers of the journey followed by a country which is moving away from the original purpose of the American republic, but towards the search for global empire.

Today Economic Hit Man has the title even more powerful and admirable than the author's experience when he was Economic Hit Man, in a group of Economic Hit Man that is no more than it is now. They exist in Monsanto, General Electric, Nike, General Motors, Wal-Mart, and almost all large companies in the world.

In fact, this book is the true story of them and also the author. This is our story in a truly global empire. History teaches us, if we do not amend this story, something tragic will happen.

This book is produced so that we learn and develop our own way of life. The author confident when many among us are aware of how we being exploit in the economic engine that voraciously consuming the resource, and produces a system that encourages slavery, then that's where the point that we cannot remain silent anymore.

We see our position in this world, where few people enjoy the wealth and many are drowning in poverty, hunger, pollution and violence.

Thus we are committed to ourselves to search compassion, social justice, democracy and universal. Recognizing a problem is the first step toward finding a solution. Confession is the beginning of repentance.

The book is expected to be the beginning of our salvation. It will propel us to new levels of determination and drive our ambition to create a world community that is balanced and respectable.
