Dear National Library of Medicine,

I would like to recommend the Journal of Yoga & Physical Therapy for indexing in the PubMed database. Research in the areas of complementary, alternative, and/or integrative (CAIM) medicine has been expanding rapidly and there is now a clear need to have journals that can focus on specific aspects of CAIM research. It no longer makes sense to me to lump studies of botanical compounds with mind-body behavioral interventions where very different outcomes and methods are required.

I serve on the editorial board of this journal and have watched the editorial board members and journal staff work diligently to establish high professional standing of this journal. This work will be ongoing and will benefit greatly from indexing in PubMed. Please contact me if you have any questions.

My Sincere Regards,
